Mary and Joe Penkowski present Flying in Formation: Dual Career Relationships. The authors of a brand-new book, Flying in Formation: Dual-Career Marriage, the Penkowski's value their marriage, their children, and the career of each spouse. Joe is in the Florida Department of Vocational Rehabilitation. Mary is Vice President at Florida State University. The Penkowski's are a down-to-earth family, with a wonderful sense of humor. Join this seminar on an issue of interest to so many of us who are trying to juggle home, family and work in today's world.

(B) Living Alone, not Lonely Living

Nancy Weinstein and Betsy K. Puskar look at this sensitive issue Living Alone, not Lonely Living. Nancy, a social worker and counselor, and Betty, a counselor and Dean of Natural and Behavioral Sciences at USC Coastal, draw upon life experiences of women who have either made the choice to live alone, or circumstances in life have made the living alone choice for them. This is an honest, open discussion that deals with the realities of Living Alone, not Lonely Living.

Welcome to the 1990 Women's Conference,
THE POLITICS OF WOMEN'S EXPERIENCE

The political climate of women in our nation and in our communities continues to be somewhat "chilly". The politics of women's experience covers a wide range, and spills over into the home, workplace, church, interpersonal relationships, childcare, economics, education, environment, health care, and civil rights. Now more than ever, there is a need for us to come together, form networks and learn to understand as well as break barriers of race, ethnic, economic and cultural differences. We are the key to our personal and professional development. This annual conference provides the opportunity for us to support each other, offers new role models that differ from old hierarchies, and allows us to form within ourselves, our communities, and our nation a voice unified by the politics of women's experience.
